

Modules in JavaScript (import/export)

→A module is just a JS file that can share code with another file.

→Instead of writing everything in one file, you can split your code into multiple files and connect them using export and import.

export = send out code from one file.

import = bring in that code into another file.